

Protect yourself
& your mates

Think Safe
to Drink
Safe

Drink spiking is a criminal offence. In NSW penalties include fines and up to 2 years imprisonment.

What to do:

If you think your drink has been spiked, seek help ASAP:

- ask someone you trust to help you get to a safe place
- seek help from venue staff
- if you feel unwell go to the emergency department of the nearest hospital
- ask your doctor to test for the presence of drugs. Urine or blood test can pick up traces of certain drugs up to 24 hours later
- make a report to the venue and/or Police – reporting the incident can contribute to preventing drink spiking incidents happening to others

In an emergency, phone triple zero (000) or the nearest police station. For information about sexual assault, or for counselling or referral, call 1800RESPECT.

Supported by the

