Football doubles

What is a football double?

A football double involves the purchase of sealed tickets that have certain numbers printed on them. The winner is determined by the ticket holder's numbers corresponding with the football jersey numbers of the scorers of the first two try scorers in a particular football match.

Variations

Football triples – involves the three numbers instead of two.

Final score – is based on the final score for the two sides playing rather than the first scorer.

Points margin – the ticket with the winning game margin claims the prize.

Who may benefit from the conduct of a football double?

A football double may only be conducted to raise funds for the benefit of a non-profit organisation.

A non-profit organisation is a body of persons that is not formed for private gain, and includes charities, social clubs, registered clubs, political parties and trade unions.

Is a permit required?

Football doubles may be conducted without a permit. However, you must comply with the requirements of the Lotteries and Art Unions Act 1901.

If a football double is conducted for raising funds for a charity, an authority under the Charitable Fundraising Act 1991 may be required. If you are unsure, please contact NSW Fair Trading.

What expenses may be incurred?

You may incur reasonable expenses for:

- ▲ advertising and promoting the lottery, including postage, telephone, lists of names

The total allowable expenses (including the cost of the prizes) must not be more than 60% of the gross proceeds.

Health regulations

The offer of perishable items such as green groceries, meat and fish as prizes is regulated under the Food Act 2003.

Such prizes must satisfy the same requirements that apply to food sold through normal retail outlets. These include:

- ▲ the manner of handling and packaging the food
- ▲ the manner of labelling packages of food
- ▲ the temperature at which food must be kept.

Contact NSW Food Authority for more information.

Fish prizes must also comply with the Fisheries Management Act 1994 and the Fisheries Act 1935. A special permit is required.

Contact the Department of Primary Industries for more information.

Payment of commission and remuneration

You cannot pay any commission or remuneration to a person for services rendered in connection with the football double unless there is a written agreement between that person and the benefiting organisation.

The agreement must specify:

- ▲ the service to be rendered
- ▲ the remuneration to be provided
- ▲ the period of the agreement.

If the benefiting organisation is an authority holder under the Charitable Fundraising Act 1991, the agreement must specify other requirements. Contact NSW Fair Trading for further information.

How much should the benefiting organisation receive?

The profit from the football double must be at least 40% of the gross proceeds.

If the football double does not achieve the required minimum of 40% profit, you must apply to us in writing for approval to accept the reduced percentage. The application must explain the unusual and unexpected circumstances that resulted in the unfavourable outcome.

Is there a maximum price per ticket?

Yes. The charge for a ticket cannot exceed $2.00.

The sale price must be consistently applied to all tickets sold. No ticket may be disposed of except for the advertised value of the ticket or for some other consideration, which is equivalent to the value. You may sell tickets at a discount, but only if this facility is fully disclosed in all information.

Are there a maximum number of tickets that may be sold?

Yes. Not more than 3,000 tickets are to be produced, used or offered for sale in the football double.

What is required of the ticket?

The tickets or cards of each lottery must be numbered consecutively. A unique series number or symbol must distinguish each series of tickets or cards from each other series.

The tickets and cards must be produced so that the football jersey numbers cannot be detected without removing the opaque material that covers them.

Each football card must specify:

- ▲ the price to be paid, and
- ▲ the name of the organisation for whose benefit the lottery is being conducted.

How should ticket sales be managed?

You cannot send tickets to any person except with their prior consent, even if the person is a member of your organisation. This applies regardless of whether the person is to purchase the ticket or is to act as agent for the sale of the tickets. You can send letters and notices to people asking them to buy tickets in the lottery, however, you must not include tickets with the correspondence.

If you intend to sell tickets in a street or public place in a local government area, you may require written permission from the local council. You should contact your local council for more information.

Football doubles must be conducted fairly. A procedure must be adopted which ensures that all tickets are secure, are distributed on a purely random basis and are not capable of manipulation.

You must take suitable measures to ensure that there is adequate control over the issue of tickets to selling agents, the receipt of money and the receipt of unsold tickets or cards.

Not more than one football double lottery is to be conducted by or on behalf of the benefiting organisation at the one time.

Coin-operated dispensing machines cannot be used for the sale of football double tickets.

Tickets for liquor prizes cannot be sold by or to a person under 18. Also a person under 18 cannot give or collect a liquor prize.

What happens if there is an error in the printing of the tickets or cards?

A participant is not to be deprived of an entitlement to a prize merely because of a flaw in the production of the tickets. For example, you may not refuse to hand over a prize just because tickets produced for a lottery include more prize-winning numbers than intended. This applies even though the pool of prizes or money set aside for the purchase of prizes has been exhausted or is insufficient to provide the relevant prize.

The cost of supplying additional prizes is to be met by the organisers of the lottery, and is not to be met from the receipts of the lottery unless the lottery is conducted by the benefiting organisation.

Liability may be limited by insurance or by contract with the printer of the tickets.

How should you advertise the football double?

You must use your best endeavours to ensure that the following information is available to potential participants:

- ▲ details of the prizes and their value
- ▲ details of how prizes may be claimed by the winners or how the prizewinners will be notified and the way in which the results will be publicised
- ▲ the rules under which persons may participate in the lottery.

This information may be printed on the football double ticket or card.

Are there any advertising restrictions?

You must not publish, or cause to be published, any lottery advertising that:

- ▲ encourages a breach of the law
- ▲ depicts children participating in a lottery activity
- ▲ is false, misleading or deceptive
- ▲ suggests that winning will be a definite outcome of entering or participating in the lottery activity
- ▲ suggests that entering or participating in the lottery activity will definitely improve a person's financial prospects
- ▲ is not conducted in accordance with decency, dignity and good taste.

In this context, publish includes disseminate in any way, whether by oral, visual, written or other means (for example, email, video, radio, television or web).

You must not state or imply in any information or publicity that the lottery is authorised or approved by the Government or by any government agency.

How should I notify the results and arrange for the prize to be given to the prizewinner?

You must give participants on the ticket or by some other means details of:

- ▲ how prizes may be claimed, or
- ▲ how the prizewinners will be notified and of the way in which the results will be publicised.

If participants are not able to determine whether they have won a prize, you must use your best endeavours to inform each prize winner within two days after the result of the lottery is decided.

Where a money prize exceeds

$2,000, the organiser must pay to the prizewinner the amount as exceeds $2,000 by means of a crossed cheque payable to the prizewinner, or if the prizewinner so requests, by means of electronic transfer of funds to an account nominated by the prizewinner.

What if a prize is unclaimed?

If, despite every reasonable effort, you cannot contact a prizewinner you must retain the prize for three months after the lottery.

However, if a prize is perishable it may be sold or disposed of in a way that you consider will bring a reasonable price.

The money realised (after deducting the reasonable costs of sale or disposal) must be held in trust for the winner of the prize.

If a prize remains unclaimed at the end of three months, you should send a letter to us setting out full details of the steps that you took to contact the winner and have the prize delivered, and seeking permission to sell the prize.

When you receive written approval, the prize is to be sold and the proceeds of the sale paid into the funds of the organisation in aid of which the lottery was held.

Banking the proceeds

You must ensure that all money received is paid into an account at a bank, building society or credit union being an account belonging to the benefiting organisation as soon as practicable, preferably within two business days after it is received.

At least two persons must be signatories to the account, one of whom is to be a member of the governing body or management committee of the benefiting organisation.

What records do you need to keep?

You must keep all receipts, invoices and other records concerning costs and outgoings, and payments received and donations.

Any record keeping requirement imposed by the Charitable Fundraising Act 1991 is in addition to those required to be kept by the Lotteries and Art Unions Act 1901.

You must also keep a record of:

- ▲ the total amount of money received
- ▲ the total value of the prizes
- ▲ the total number of football double tickets produced or acquired for the lottery (including their serial number and unique series number or symbol)
- ▲ the total number of football double tickets distributed and the total number sold (including their serial number and unique series number or symbol)

- ▲ the names and contact details of all prizewinners together with details of their prizes
- ▲ the number of tickets remaining unsold (including their serial number and unique series number or symbol).

How long are records required to be kept?

You must retain all records, all unsold tickets and all accounts and other documents, and all computer records for seven years. Unsold tickets must be retained for at least three years after the date of the draw.

Are financial statements or returns required?

You are not required to submit a return to us unless specifically requested. However, the organisation in whose benefit the football double is conducted must ensure that the organisation's financial statements detail the gross proceeds and expenses of the lottery.

Who is responsible?

The promoter or organisers are jointly and individually responsible for the proper conduct of the football double.

A subcommittee may be elected from within the benefiting organisation to be the organising committee. Alternatively, the benefiting organisation may authorise persons outside the organisation to conduct the lottery for them. The management committee of the benefiting organisation should satisfy itself about the good standing and competence of the persons organising the lottery.

The benefiting organisation should introduce adequate controls to oversight the organisers, including insisting on reports, ratifying all expenses and prizes awarded, having full access to records and registers, and ensuring financial records are audited.

Are the records subject to inspection?

Yes. All records are subject to inspection by our authorised officers or police.

Are there any penalties?

Yes. There is a range of penalties for conducting a football double contrary to requirements, including:

- ▲ conducting the lottery fraudulently
- ▲ misappropriating funds or prizes
- ▲ making false statements
- ▲ failing to keep books and records
