To: Liquor Law Review <liquorlawreview@justice.nsw.gov.au>;

As a former Police officer, I saw the destruction of civil law in 1977 when the ALP removed the Summary Offences Act (common sense based on evolution of community law and standards since the Magna Carta and beyond). NSW Police have been hogtied and trying to catch up ever since. The patchwork laws relating to alcohol abuse we now have are, at least better than none. Don't remove them.
