Hello,

I am writing as an artist, student and permanent resident of Sydney my entire life to say please reconsider these lock out laws. I have lost many opportunities as a musician and arts lover to explore and expose my art as a part of Sydney culture. This aspect of Sydney is dying and it is an integral part of an community. We need to put into place different kinds of pathways to the violence and alcohol situation, lock out laws do not fix the problem, they hide us all away from it but the problem still remains.

My musical financial situation has suffered greatly, my personal happiness has suffered greatly too with the lack of freedom and innovation offered with these laws.

Please get rid of the lock out laws and find a greater, more intelligent way to deal with the problem. Sydney is more innovative and sophisticated then that.

Thank you
