I think there needs to be a review that follows Melbourne nightlife example. Whilst some venues should close earlier than others a blanket rule has destroyed people's livelihoods. More money and resources needs to spent in the public sector to support a vibrant nightlife along with sufficient transport links. These haven't been adopted in Sydney. There is nothing wrong with a vibrant nightlife. I go to Europe every year and see how they enjoy their nightlife which is nothing like all the restrictions placed in Sydney. The elephant in the room, the topic of illegal drugs has had little mention. You just needs to walk through kings cross during the day NOW and see the effects. As for the casinos, they should be the first to be shut down promoting gambling and also destroying people's livelihoods. A review on a case by case basis is needed not a blanket rule

Thanks vicky
