

Submission to the review of alcohol

Graham Chappell [REDACTED]

Thu 24/03/2016 3:27 PM

To: Liquor Law Review <liquorlawreview@justice.nsw.gov.au>;

As the parent of 2 late teen/early twenties kids who think they are bullet proof, but definitely aren't, I have to say the lock out laws MUST STAY.

We grew up in a much more respectful society where young people could generally make mistakes and learn from them. Today's society isn't as forgiving. A mistake today is far more likely to mean a lifetime, and the lifetime of that persons' family and friends, of lost opportunities or regrets.

Because today's society isn't as tolerant as that of yesteryear legislation has to fill the void.

Don't let short sighted commercial interests reverse the lifesaving promise of the current liquor laws.

Graham Chappell

Regards,

Graham Chappell

Community supporter