We have lived in [REDACTED] for more than 14 years and in that time we have noticed a distinct improvement in the quality of life in our area, since the new alcohol laws came into force--we had experienced yahoos speeding, music pumping, high on alcohol and /or drugs- up and down Macleay Street. Also , previously, we heard occasional gunshots, and there were many young people in the area, very affected by alcohol with the inevitable result of violence and vomit and loads of rubbish littering the streets. The cleanup costs must be enormous each weekend and ultimately those costs must be passed onto the ratepayers. We do not wish the Cross to lose its character and colour but we do not wish it to revert to the old alcohol laws. Please resist the commercial pressure of those who made money at the residents' expense and at the expense of the health of many young and impacted on the residents' rights to enjoyment of their surrounds in safety.
