Any move to curb alcohol consumption is a good one. I have witnessed the violence that alcohol produces and it appalls me the misery it brings, in particular to families.

I am aghast to hear that our state is considering winding back the recently enacted laws.

Apart from the 32% reduction in assaults, the social functioning of family life is disrupted by the ridiculously long drinking hours, eg. Young person leaves home 9pm and finally returns at 3/4/5am any parent would be anxious and worried about their child's safety and that youngster is too sick and sorry to partake in any social activity let alone family life.

Please do not rewind the laws.
