I am underemployed because of the lockout laws; they have reduced civilian traffic so much in my area of employment that my workplace doesn't need all the staff it used to. I worked 14 hours last week and have rent to pay and will likely have to find a job outside the city because no one is hiring like they used to.

Get rid of these ridiculous restrictions. They are bad for business owners, workers and tourism and are degrading Sydney's reputation, image economy as a whole.

Sincerely
Michael George
