I have worked in hospitality for the past 6 years of my life as a waiter, bartender, bar back etc. you could say I know the hospitality field quite well. Never in these past 6 years have I seen Sydney nightlife squander so obviously, and with such obvious reasons. The new lockout laws and related legislation are so clearly in favour of Australia's high tax revenue from pokie machines and the gambling tax that it's almost embarrassing. It is unfair to the general public and to tourists wishing to see Sydney's once renowned nightlife to deny them this right for government profit. The Victorian government tackled this very same problem years ago and found a more appropriate solution- let's follow suit instead of denying everyone the right to party.
