To: Liquor Law Review <liquorlawreview@justice.nsw.gov.au>;

I was an operational police officer from 1967 until 2002 retiring at the rank of Inspector. During my service I saw the continual removal of licencing responsibility for the safe service of alcohol which lead to an increase in violence - all due to 24 hour 7 day week availability of alcohol. The liquor industry has always needed regulation, history has proven this and the controls now in place are working and the vast majority of the community support these controls, in fact it is my view the controls don't go far enough.
