Hello Mike,
It seems that the responses to your lock-out laws are, overwhelmingly, negative. Ouch...
I don't agree with them, either. Here's why.

- It's, painfully, obvious that the Casino's are exempt from and contradict everything the the laws stand for and as a result will continue to funnel a lot more of our city's foot traffic into them along with any other bars / pubs with Pokies, located within the lock-out precinct, which are also exempt from the Lock-outs. Hmm. That's hypocritical don't you think? You might not. But a vast majority of Sydney-siders do, including myself!

Sydney's iconic nightlife hubs (Oxford St / King's X) are dead now, mate.
The coward punch became an inexcusable stain on our city & country. But I can't help and feel that, perhaps, the lock-out laws were conveniently leveraged against it.

I'm not convinced of your reasoning behind the lock-out laws, especially where the Casino's are concerned, Mike.

Here's some entertainment for you >
