It is so important to keep the current alcohol lockout laws in place. Where this exists such as Kings Cross and Newcastle violence has substantially decreased.

It is wrong to say the 'one punch' deaths only occur from people who have already filled up with alcohol before they arrive at these places. This does happen but many 'one punch' victims are prevented by these alcohol laws.

When I was younger alcohol was not sold in pubs and clubs after midnight. This should be applied across all areas.

There is no reason whatsoever for people to go out drinking after midnight. They can buy alcohol before hand and take it home to drink if they so desire.

STOP violence from alcohol. DO NOT weaken these laws.

We need places to be safe to visit.
