Having seen at first hand the effect of local alcohol agreements between hotel and club licencees in Tamworth, I strongly support the last drinks campaign to maintain and even toughen the current restrictions on serving of alcohol in the late and early hours of the night.

As a young man, I frequented Kings Cross on many occasions, circa 1970/75 and not once did I witness the violence that was so prevalent before the introduction of the current laws. I visited Kings Cross last in 2001 and would not go there again because of what I saw with drunken youth falling about and behaving in an obnoxious and threatening manner.

Keep the laws as they are and look to strengthening them.
