To whom this may concern,

I am writing to express my disdain for the current Liquor Laws in NSW. The laws that were designed to make us feel safer have the exact opposite affect - I've never felt more unsafe, exposed, and at risk of violence than I have walking through an eerily deserted Kings Cross or Oxford St on a Saturday night. In addition, the laws have caused devastating damage to so many small businesses (venues, food vendors, musicians) and to Sydney's arts, music and cultural scene. The vast majority of well-behaved Sydney residents and tourists who just want to be able to buy a bottle of wine at 10:01pm or get back into a club after 1:30am do not deserve to be punished for the deplorable acts of such a tiny few.

Kind regards,

Tasha Levy
