

End lockout Laws

Ruby Lowenstein [REDACTED]

Wed 30/03/2016 4:23 PM

To: Liquor Law Review <liquorlawreview@justice.nsw.gov.au>;

I don't have the time to compile a long list of reasons why this lockout law distresses me, but to say that there are many reasons.

From where I sit as a responsible, law abiding citizen who does not engage in disorderly drunk conduct, I am being punished for the actions of a few drunken idiots. The root of the issue stems from Australia's negative and over the top drinking culture but instead of addressing this through education and care you have laid out a blanket policy that punishes worthy and unworthy alike. Effective but crude and unethical.

They are put in place by a generation who is not impacted by them and seems not to care that it is MY nightlife that is being wrecked, MY experiences of youth that are being curbed. And since I don't have a voice in parliament, or any type of political sway except for the ability to take to the streets with signage, I write to you know so that you know,

I am exceedingly opposed to sydney's lockout laws.

They must be reviewed.

Sincerely,

A concerned citizen.

Ruby