As someone who has worked in an ED (but is now retired) I have seen the grossly unnecessary harm and injuries caused by alcohol and alcohol induced violence. The laws currently in place have meant a drastic reduction of such crime and is to be applauded. To even consider relaxing the current laws would be a retrograde step and would benefit no member of the public at all. It would simply increase the income of AHA. If our State government is concerned to ensure the well-being and peaceful quality of life of its electors, then it will NOT wind back the current laws in relation to alcohol trading hours.
