To whom it may concern,

I would like to voice my opposition to the current reforms of liquor laws, as a lifelong citizen of New South Wales.

I believe the laws do not do enough to address the real issues behind alcohol fueled violence. There are no education measures involved in the current reforms and that means that the real issues behind alcohol fueled violence are not being addressed, which means that the current measures are not adequate in solving the issues being faced.

I also believe that the current reforms have worsened living conditions within the state, especially for the young and tourists. In some cultures it's perfectly normal to eat quite late into the night, up to and perhaps even past midnight, but that's something that is becoming less available to people visiting our state, making the state a less attractive place to visit. Also, it's now almost impossible to dance through the night, which I believe lowers the quality of life of our younger generation.

Thanks for your time,
Kind regards,
Samuel Martin
