I am in favour of the current restrictions, don't back down to pressure.

As a father of 3 daughters I also want to keep them safe, a life is worth more than after hours profits. Young Australians need to show they are capable of drinking in a responsible and dignified manner. For the first time in many years we ventured into the cross for a meal, the area had a marked change it was calm, with the undertone of aggro diminished.

Education programs need to be increased and for those who offend perhaps a trip to the local hospital to see first hand the affects excessive of drugs and alcohol have on the body. Don't change the laws, please.

Regards,

Steven McCarthy
