

Submission to the Review of the Liquor Amendment Act 2014

MK McLeavy, Kyle [REDACTED]

To: Liquor Law Review; ▾

Reply all | ▾

Mon 4:58 PM

Inbox

Submission to the Review of the Liquor Amendment Act 2014 by the Hon. IDF Callinan AC QC

4 April 2016

To: Liquor Law Review, liquorlawreview@justice.nsw.gov.au

From: Kyle McLeavy

As a Sydney resident and a peaceful participant of its once vibrant nightlife, I am grateful for the opportunity to make this submission. I am writing to you because I have personally experienced the impacts that the lockout laws have had on our city – I have seen businesses close, witnessed the loss of jobs, lamented the lack of places to socialise with my friends and mourned the dwindling opportunities to listen to live, local music.

We all agree that safe streets are a priority, but there are better ways to achieve this. Evidence and common sense suggests that a better planned response could have a greater effect on reducing alcohol-related violence without having the unintended consequences that the lockout laws have had.

What happened?

Sydney's night-time economy had an awkward start to life. It grew up and out too quickly and without being properly planned for. Before we knew it, tens of thousands of people were coming into a few precincts every Friday and Saturday night, and yet instead of being managed on the scale this required, Kings Cross was left to its own devices. The police were not willing or able to deal with the belligerent or violently inclined. The venues were packed and the streets were chaotic. When it all got too much or you decided it was time to go home, the busses and trains had stopped and the fight for a cab was a long one.

Then, tragically, two young men lost their lives. The city mourned and rightly decided things had to change. The government's response, however, chose to deflect the blame and rushed through blanket laws without consultation. The lockout laws have been a failure.

I personally have had the lockouts effect both myself as well as many member of my friends and family. Prior to the lockouts I was beginning to make a supplementary income as a DJ, with more events and venues opening regularly. Since the lockouts, I have lost many of the gigs that I was playing prior. Some of the venues have closed and some of the organisers have had their businesses folded due to the economic pressure of less people going out to said events. I have had my freedom removed as well as my ability to make income, have fun and make new friends. This has also had an effect on my personal mental health.

I have had many friends lose their jobs in the hospitality industry, completely shaking up their lives. People whom were making their income through hospitality whilst studying tertiary education are now left unemployed, simply because the government chose to make knee-jerk policies which have destroyed culture and made Sydney nightlife a laughing stock across the globe.

Once such friend was forced to put their tertiary education on hold as they now did not earn any income and were forced to move back in with their parents who lived to far from the university to make it feasible.

What needs to change?

The lock-out laws have caused irreparable damage to the economic, social and cultural fabric of Sydney. Instead of the 1:30am lockout and 3.00am cease of service, the 7 key actions below should be implemented together to curb the violence and keep Sydney open for all to enjoy.

- 1 Developing best-practice policing strategies;
- 2 Investing in 24/7 public transport;
- 3 Implementing integrated urban planning reform;
- 4 Encouraging diversification of after-dark activities;
- 5 Establishing anti-violence education & intervention campaigns;
- 6 Incentivising well-run venues; and
- 7 Appointing a Night Mayor.

SIGNED Kyle McLeavy, 4 APRIL 2016

Kyle McLeavy

Ingest & Triage Operator

This email and its attachments are for the sole use of the addressee and may contain information which is confidential and/or legally privileged. This email and its attachments are subject to copyright and should not be partly or wholly reproduced without the consent of the copyright owner. Any unauthorised use of disclosure of this email or its attachments is prohibited. If you receive this email in error, please immediately delete it from your system and notify the sender by return email.