Hi!

I hope you're well.

Just writing in quickly to express my concern about the lockout laws. I'm going to keep this short and simple!

I work as a DJ and an event planner, I run my own businesses, and these have been heavily affected by the laws. I worked in Kings Cross every single weekend since I turned 18 up until a few months ago, when the event I DJ at had to move venues to Darling Harbour due to the extreme lack of people.

It's been a tough slog to say the least, and it's so hard keeping up and trying to push music and my passion in a city that seems to be moving so far away from this. When i've visited other cities, in particular Melbourne, i've been blown away by how smoothly everything is run, and I really think we need to change the laws so that everything is policed in a better way and so that the focus is on the extreme minority of people ruining it rather than sacrificing a beautiful vibrant nightlife for so many people who deserve to experience it.

I'm 100% certain that the lockouts haven't fixed the real problem and i've seen fights in so many other areas outside of the places that have been targeted. None of it makes sense. We really need change, and killing our nightlife isn't going to fix it.

Sydney is an amazing global city and it needs it's nightlife back ASAP - please, please reconsider.

Thank you,
Brad
