I work in Pathology and I see too many affected family members who have dealt with the effects of alcohol either through accidents/ alcoholism etc. I have also seen in my personal life the effect that alcohol has on family members and the toll that it takes on either the drinker or the family members... it would be negligent to go back on laws already in place for the control of alcohol in our society. These rules do not stop all the problems that are accounted for but they certainly bring awareness to the public, and protect certain people from harm. It would be regretful if these rules were taken as people need reminders of how their actions effect others. I do not drink myself but have seen first hand how marriages have failed and people have had to deal with grief from the loss of either a divorce or death and the consequences have been horrific. Please keep these laws in place!
