To whom it may concern,

I would like the lockout bans to remain in effect and to be extended to other parts of Sydney. As we know, much violence is alcohol fueled ( e.g. doctors' reports at St Vincents Hospital) and the number of people being admitted to Emergency with injuries caused by fights or unprovoked attacks has gone down dramatically. As a woman, I feel much safer going out at night in the City with fewer drunken people wandering the streets. Other women friends feel the same way. We would patronize fewer restaurants, concerts and the theatre if the lockout laws were rescinded.
