I live in  which is extreme for alcohol-related violence. I had a small, friendly, low-cost guesthouse for 13 years and had to give it up because of the increasing noise, violence and disturbance in the streets as venues stayed open later and patrons got drunker, shouting and smashing bottles on the way home past my guesthouse. I was so glad to hear of the measures imposed in Newcastle and Kings Cross and the excellent results achieved in reducing violence and injuries. I believe Australians have to be discouraged from excessive drinking and these measures have shown the way. Please don't relax them - bring them in in more places that need to curb excessive drinking, for all our sakes and especially for my grandchildren so they can grow up safer.
