I believe that the current laws are working. They now provide are now providing a safer stress-free environment for the majority. I have an apartment in [REDACTED] and I feel more at ease, less intimidated when going to restaurants and visiting my friends and family in the Kings Cross-St Vincents area.

The streets are cleaner, the noise slightly lessened and the aggression is substantially reduced. The sort of businesses I patronise appear to be doing well - supermarket, health food shop and coffee shops.

Please don't go backwards. Think too of the police and medicos and their lives.

Regards,

Robin Richards
