I would like the Government to continue with the practices in place to reduce the traumatic effects of serious assaults and other incidents where the perpetrator is under the influence of alcohol. As a former police officer with 31 years service in NSW, I saw first hand the impact an alcohol induced incident had on not only the victim and their families and friends, but everyone that came into contact with the victim and those innocent bystanders that witnessed the event. Our community needs to feel safe and protected from injury and harm, the lock out laws are proving to be an effective tool and should be continued without question.
