

Untitled

Tim Scollay

Wed 30/03/2016 5:56 PM

To: Liquor Law Review <liquorlawreview@justice.nsw.gov.au>;

Submission to Independent Review:

The recent developments in Sydney's liquor laws are destroying the vibrancy and life of Sydney's nightlife, music, gay and lesbian, and international scene. The meaning of personal freedom and what it is supposed to mean to 'be a responsible adult' is changing for the worst, and is shaming the state government and making them seem like those school teachers nobody liked back in the day. Recent time I have been spending abroad as shown me the possibility for other ways. The problems and supposed reason these laws were instigated that the media keeps shouting at the public are insignificant compared to real issues, and are just the ghost of reasoning that keeps us distracted from other issues.

Please, humans connect with humans, and the Australian way of doing such things is over a cold beer at three in the morning in summer, or pressed up to tens of other sweaty bodies as you all appreciate the same band at a festival. They unite us and will do more to helping this world than petty laws or feeding the coffers of 24/7 Casinos.

Cheers,
Tim