I am an ex-police officer of 25 years service. Of those 25 years, I spent almost 20 of them serving in the Sydney CBD, initially as Constable and later on as a Sergeant: for many years of this, I served as an intelligence supervisor. I have seen statistically and first-hand the devastating consequences of excessive alcohol consumption. It was unanimous amongst police who served in the city area that the best way to reduce assaults, robberies, theft, malicious damage and road trauma, was to limit the availability of alcohol. For the good of the greater community please leave the existing laws in place.
