Regarding the past weekend with the brawl in the CBD Sydney. Why aren't the police doing beat patrols along where the hot spots are.

This is getting ridiculous that the Premier has the balls to blame people who go out and have a good time and occasionally the one punch does occur and well shit happens.

Why aren't the police doing anything in their power to reduce this kind of behavior and being PROACTIVE POLICING instead of REACTIVE POLICING. Being seen is a deter-ant it wont stop people from being idiots but it will reduce it as the visibility of the police.

The government will put more police on overtime when it comes up to the holiday season and give out fines which say it is for road safety in fact it is for revenue.

Enough is enough if the government does not act and start to withdraw the lock out laws Mike Baird will loose the next state election.

We are the laughing stock of the world with no night life.

The government has its own idea for Kings Cross for residential apartments and that is why the lock out laws were brought in for businesses to close and developers would buy the property off the closed businesses to build more residential there as it is a gold mine for property.

The government says enough is enough of violence why doesn't Mike Baird and the police combat the violence down at the casino and Pymont as I have witnessed the violence down there has got a lot worse ever since the lock out laws came in to force.

So who in the government is getting a kick back or bribes to allow the casino and Pymont bridge hotel to operate 24hrs as the in the city ?

The violence down there and the surrounding areas are ridiculous
