In my opinion the lockout laws should be made even more stringent. The arrogant behaviour of people affected by alcohol is disgraceful. I feel so sorry for the poor police, paramedics and hospital staff who have to deal with this. How many of said workers have left these services because of this? And for what? So that self-centred and naive party-goers can hand –over their cash to the relatively few parasitic pub owners and get “smashed”? People living nearby pubs and clubs serving alcohol who want nothing to do with this lifestyle should also be able to get positive and quick action on the noise and obnoxious behaviour that go hand-in hand with these “establishments”.
