Hi,

I disagree with the current liquor laws. I have friends who have lost their once profitable, safe, enjoyable businesses because of the increasing ridiculous cost imposed on these venues.

Everyone I speak to says Sydney is embarrassing and they are now looking at Melbourne to go out.

I have 2 young boys and want the streets to be safe for them to grow up but think this isn't the answer.

I liked the idea of the kings cross nightclubs paying for extra police and security to have a safe area for people to go out. Once people are 18 we should be able to go out and enjoy a late night out.

There are so many other options. Please consider these over becoming a nanny state.

Thanks

Lauren Vella
