Hello,

I'll keep this brief, but placing all focus on keeping people out of venues is the wrong tact.. This is a cultural issue that stems from early on and can mostly be attributed to teenage rivalry and sporting aggression.. This is what causes a large majority of the male bravado and drunked violence.

Clubs in Sydney that have good dance music as a priority are victim to a scene that has become whitewashed with profitering venues, which lack true heart.

By imposing lockouts on Sydney a healthy arts and music scene is being destroyed and the developers paradise that is the nanny state of NSW continues...
