Good evening,

I am writing to support the lockout laws which have seen a quantifiable improvement to public safety and a reduction in casualty admissions due to alcohol fueled violence. The fact is that people have been killed as a result of the afore mentioned violence such as 18 year old Daniel Christie. According to a study undertaken by Monash University's forensic medicine department NSW has 28 deaths since 2000.

Whilst there are arguments for and against the demonstrated benefit from the lockout laws are a fact and the consequences of relaxing the laws may be a return to the alcohol fueled violence before the lockout. I am writing to place my full support behind the laws and the protection of lives and the families of potential victims. Stay the course and continue to act in the public interest.
